

'All the time in the world'

TWO of Linda Whetstone's winners particularly impressed her. One was Paul Hayler, who piloted British-bred Loumic Antioni to the 10-year-old's first PSG win on 69.04%.

Linda said: "It was a hot class but some of them looked hurried. Paul's horse had energy but gave the impression of having all the time in the world to do the movements. The rider never asked more than the horse can give at this point, but you could see the potential was there."

Andrew Gould took Mandy Crouch's Donnerschlag mare Wild Angel to her first premier league inter I victory on a score of 70.96%.

Linda said: "Andrew had the horse very nicely connected. I gave three nines for copybook transitions. The rider didn't appear to move and the horse changed from canter to collected trot to extended seamlessly."
